

GRAN PARADISO 4000M PEAK GOAL

It's the only 4000 entirely in Italy : this famous Gran Paradiso is renowned to be a true paradise for skiers.

Vast glaciers and gentle slopes make this emblematic summit the most easy of the highest skiable peaks. Certainly an ideal destination to cross the mythical 4000m, skis on foot. Our itinerary starts by joining the Victor Emmanuel refuge, one of the most warm and hearty mountain huts in the Italian Alps with always a friendly welcome.

The second day will lead us to the gran Paradiso peak by a succession of deep valleys leading us to a very large glacier that we will climb up until a high slope. A few easy climbing steps will allow us to join the summit from where the view of the Mont Blanc and the Valais are incredible.

The last day is dedicated to the Tresenta ascent, an exquisite summit and descent for three unforgettable days in altitude.

Weather

The best time of year to climb Gran Paradiso is from June through September. However, the weather here is still decent enough for ascents in the late spring and early autumn as well. Indeed, during the summer months, the average temperatures on the mountain fluctuate between 8°C to 12°C, but once you reach the glacier and above, it gets much colder. Temperatures at the base of the mountain are generally around 20°C. Thus, we recommend to dress in layers.

While temperatures do not drop too much during the spring and autumn, it is definitely cooler and will require warmer clothing than the summer.

Late spring and early summer is when it precipitates the most in this area. While the weather is generally clear, squalls and afternoon thunderstorms are not uncommon.

July through October are generally drier than May and June.

Electricity

There will be electricity in most places you will stay. If you are scared to run low on battery, we advise to bring an external battery charger.

Power plugs in France have the particularity of being male and female at the same time : they have 2 prongs and a receptacle. If you need an adapter, please purchase it before departure. In France the power plugs and sockets are of type E. The standard voltage is 230 V and the standard frequency is 50 Hz.

For Italy there are three associated plug types : types C, F and L. Plug type C is the plug which has two round pins, plug type F is the plug which has two round pins with two earth clips on the side and plug type L is the plug type which has three round pins. Italy operates on a 230V supply voltage and 50Hz. Check that you can use your personal electrical appliances safely whilst abroad. If not, you will surely need the use of a travel adaptor.

Local time

France and Italy are in the Central European Time Zone. Central European Standard Time (CET) is 1 hour ahead of Greenwich Mean Time (GMT+1).
